August in Alaska - Fun with Friends

For Reservations - alaska@bearpawadventure.com

August, 2008 was another great month for those lucky enough to be in Alaska. We enjoyed the last week of the month with friends from our high school days (who we had barely seen for 50 years).

We arrived in Anchorage on August 22nd and stayed at a great B&B that first night. We will definitely recommend that place to our guests who need a place to stay in Anchorage.

The next day we drove to Anchor Point, stopping several times for Alaska wildlife and scenery photos. There are lots of things to see along the 200 mile drive.

We checked into the Wise Old Hunter Lodge at Bear Paw Adventure and then went out on halibut charters the first few days. Fishing was good and we also dropped some crab pots and caught Tanner crabs on two of the trips.

We spent a little time on Kachemak Bay, just enjoying the scenery and taking photos. If you get out on K-Bay, you may want to tour over to Gull Island, especially if you are interested in birding. You might also consider visiting Halibut Cove or Seldovia. There are great hiking trails across the Bay.

Stay with us at Bear Paw Adventure & we will help you find & enjoy Alaskan wildlife, fishing, sightseeing, hiking, marine tours, kayaking and many other great outdoor adventures.

Marine Tours

If you like marine mammals & birds, glaciers & great coastline scenery, you should have been along with us on this adventure. We started out with an evening visit to the Alaska Sea Life Center in Seward. This is a great place to see, photograph and learn about a variety of marine life. The next morning we boarded one of the big catamarans for a tour on the Fjords.

We were a little disappointed not to see Orca's on this trip, but apparently it was a little late in the season. We did see humpback whales.

Reservations

The Wise Old Hunter Lodge & Moose Cabin are available year round. Either is a great home base for October fisherman, who are chasing steelhead trout in the nearby Anchor River. This is also a great place to enjoy the fall weather & approaching winter. We're taking reservations now for 2009. Call, email or use the reservation form on our website for your reservation.

Note: the photos in this newsletter were all taken the last week of August 2008, on the Kenai Peninsula.
